Popcorn, a 'Big Gulp' and thou?

Great anticipation began to build as students waited in line for their ticket. They wondered, "Will the adventure fulfill our wildest dream?"

They clustered in a line waiting to purchase a ticket to fantasy, romance, intrigue, comedy or adventure. Yes, there was something here for everyone's taste in motion pictures.

Six CHSers traveled to Cinema I & II on Ridge Road in November to escape into a world of make-believe. With a fistful of popcorn the participants explored the dream world of the movies!

Year brings joy, tragedy

Picture this: A Superbowl title for a Chicago team? Well, in 1986 the jinx was broken and the Bears, "the monsters of the midway," pounded the New England Patriots, 46-10, in the Superbowl. On January 20 the Challenger shuttle exploded shortly following launch and seven crew members, including the first teacher in space, were killed.

Tragedies connected with terrorism were prevalent during the summer. An American serviceman was killed when a TWA jet departing from Athens was hijacked. Later in the summer The Achille Lauro, an Italian luxury liner, was hijacked by Palestinian terrorists and one American was murdered.

On the lighter side, entertainer Bruce Springsteen sang "Born in the USA" to sellout audiences on a national tour.

A CHS epic to remember

Look out Hollywood because you ought to be in pictures! Seven CHSers traveled to Costumes by Elizabeth in Hobart during the month of November.

The seven would-be actors donned a variety of theatrical costumes and re-created some memorable moments from the silver screen. Motion picture characters included Valentino, the sheik from the silent screen era, to ET, a lovable star of current Sci Fi fame.

All of the gang from the yellow brick road, except for Toto, were represented. Superman, that amazing "man of steel," and Scarlet O'Hara, the belle of the South, were also depicted.

Excitement:

As the lights dim and images begin to dance along the screen, you sit on the edge of your seat in anticipation. Will your VIP ticket to excitement fulfill your dreams?

Questions begin to spill from your imagination. Will Homecoming be of epic proportions with a patchwork of colorful floats and crowds? Will couples dance in the glow of Christmas candles and holiday tinsel at the Christmas Turnabout?

As each image flickers across the screen, the mask of comedy comes into focus for the Drama Department. Thunderous applause commends their efforts.

A fairy tale world of tuxedos and formals floats across the screen as CHSers capture the feeling of Prom fantasy.

Finally, there is the "pomp and circumstance" of Graduation. Like the coronation of a king or queen, the ceremony is full of tradition and dignity.

Your ticket is well worth the price. This year of excitement is a "block-buster!"

Harper, Jones reign at Homecoming

On September 27, during a warm evening, everyone awaited Calumet's Homecoming halftime announcement. Pre-game activities included a parade, consisting of floats constructed in all shapes and sizes. The winner of the float contest's top $50 prize was the Senior Class. The Junior Class in second place received $30. Third place was captured by Drama Club who received $13.

Even though Calumet lost on the gridiron, fans kept their spirits high. The crowd fell to a hush when the candidates for Queen and Mr. Football walked onto the field at halftime. The 1985 royal couple were seniors Kenny Jones and Michelle Harper.

Serving in the court were seniors Samantha Sheely, Terri Hicks and Diane Flores. Mr. Football nominees were seniors Mike Bridges, Dave Olson and Michael Crane.

Michelle received an engraved heart-shaped jewelry box. Kenny was presented with an engraved glass mug.

Wacky week sees wild dress-up

Who was that bagged face? A week of wacky dress-up days was sponsored by the Student Council to show off "ye old Calumet spirit" from September 23 to 27.

The Spirit Week schedule included "Class Color Day" on Monday, "Bag Your Face Day" on Tuesday, "Nerd Day" on Wednesday, "Hawaiian Day" on Thursday, and the traditional "Red and White Day" on Friday.

When the Student Council counted the participating parties, the juniors won for "Class Color Day" and the Senior Class won top participation in the remaining days.

Also during the week, the Drama Department presented the annual Homecoming Revue in honor of the 1985 CHS Football Team. The Friday program was held in two sessions during the morning hours.

a: In Mr. Robert Maginot's second hour world civilization class John Sheline, sophomore, dresses-up on "Nerd Day" as he participates in Spirit Week.

b: Joining in on Spirit Week, Chris Conti, junior, dresses for the traditional "Red and White Day."

Lis, Wadkins win as CHS favorites

Who appreciates me anyway? Sometimes the job of a student leader is all work and no recognition. However, during National Education Week, members of the Student Council recognized outstanding contributions by faculty and students.

Held from November 18 to 22, the week of activities began with "Awareness Day" on Monday. On Tuesday name tags and certificates were presented to the leaders of organizations.

Parents were invited to visit on Wednesday. Outstanding students were recognized in individual classrooms with ribbons.

On Thursday students found that turnabout was only fair play. Students took the places of faculty and staff on "Teacher Exchange Day."

Presented with a red pen, faculty members were cited on Friday. Students during "Teacher Appreciation Day" voted Miss Carmen Lis, Spanish teacher, and Mr. Jim Wadkins, mathematics teacher, as favorite faculty members. The winners were awarded an eraser and a key chain.

a: Receiving help from his teacher, sophomore Dwayne Cayton is selected outstanding student in Mr. Michael Prohl's second period class.

e: In recognition of "Teacher Appreciation Day," senior Kris Warkentin presents a red pen to Mr. John Talias, librarian, from the Student Council.

Holly, flickering candles set mood

The romantic glow of candlelight created the atmosphere for the annual Candlelight Reflections Turnabout on December 21, couples danced to the music of L & L Mobile Sound and Lighting Company.

America (I-HOSA), sponsors of the semi-formal, decorated the dance area of the cafeteria foyer with holiday colors and Christmas ornaments.

Cookies and punch were served to guests who attended the dance from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Amore Studio provided photographs of couples during the annual dance.

Voices, music lift holiday spirits

Capturing the sights and sounds of Christmas, Band, Chorus and Drama Departments enhanced the holiday spirit by presenting concerts.

Chorus and Drama Departments joined together to perform the Christmas story for students and the community in two separate performances on December 12. As the story was depicted on the stage, the Chorus sang carols representing each scene.

CHS Band members enlivened the holidays with a concert on December 18. Under the direction of Mrs. Belinda Potoma, the group played a variety of Christmas music. The performance was given in the evening in the CHS auditorium.

a: Coming to visit the child, three shepherds, portrayed by senior Andrea Flores, sophomore Melissa Stewart and junior Ruth Sutton, follow the star.

c: Delivering lines as Caesar, junior Don Baron announces the proclamation.

f: Bears' Emery Morehead, 87, scores two of his team's points on a lay-up shot.

CHS honors Simic as 'outstanding'

All of those stacks of graded papers, lessons taught, and hours of overtime spent finally came to someone's attention. Dedication to her craft led the Inland Steel-Ryerson Foundation to credit Miss Eva Simic, business teacher, as CHS' Outstanding Teacher.

Friends, fellow CHS teachers and administrators gathered on May 8 at Wicker Park Social Center for a recognition banquet.

Miss Simic attended Ball State University and has taught at CHS for 12 years. The outstanding teacher instructs business courses, intensive lab and is a sponsor of Office Education Association (OEA).

Actor relates horrors of Holocaust

The mood of the audience was silent as actor Robert Clary recounted his experiences in Nazis concentration camps during World War II. Students from 10 schools listened as the French born American recounted the horrors of the Holocaust.

Robert Clary was 16-years-of-age when he was taken away by the Nazis. Mr. Clary survived, not one concentration camp, but four, before being liberated in 1945 by the U.S. Army.

Returning to Paris, the entertainer learned of his family's fate (thirteen members murdered by the Nazis). Mr. Clary spoke to the students about the horrible experience on April 14 in the CHS auditorium.

Wachowski, Farler win MVS awards

"We should have gotten pepperoni!"

"Naw, it should have been with mushrooms, green peppers, and onions!"

Whatever style, pan or deep dish, consuming pizza is an art.

Fifteen staff members savored the aroma and taste of pizza at an after school party on May 21. The staffers, members of yearbook and newspaper, also received certificates and pins for their participation in school publications.

Major staff awards were presented to sophomore Susan Farler, Hammond Times' "Most Valuable Staffer"; junior Chris Conti, "Most Contributing Yearbook Staff Member"; and freshman Crystal Munsie, "Outstanding Writer."

Senior Patti Wachowski received the Post Tribune's "Most Valuable Staffer" plaque at the Senior Banquet.

'Heavenly' theme announces Prom

Entering into the pearly gates of "Heaven," the theme for the CHS 1986 Junior-Senior Prom, approximately 100 couples gathered at the Wicker Park Pavilion on April 11. Students and their dates arrived at the Prom site at approximately 6 p.m. and spent the evening dining and dancing. Musical selections were played by the group, Midwest Express.

The dinner, which was catered by Cataldi, consisted of three types of meat, and potatoes, vegetables, salad, punch, and dessert cake.

Following the meal, students were invited to dance away the magical night. During the band's intermission, a hush fell over the crowd as the Prom King and Queen candidates moved onto the dance floor. Excitement began to build as juniors Nathan Padgett and Lori Lazowski were crowned King and Queen. Lori received a crown and a bouquet of flowers. Nathan was presented a plaque. The runners-up were presented with necklaces and key chains.

Photographs of couples were taken by Spasoff Studio. The Junior Class, sponsors of the formal dance, presented champagne glasses and small memory books as souvenirs to couples attending.

Drama:

As you settle back into your seat you may be anticipating very little excitement in your pursuit of knowledge. However, your VIP ticket to drama is chocked full of exciting discoveries along the way.

The old image of the halls of ivy has been updated by new high tech ideas. Students bring their own youthful inquisitiveness to the classroom.

A hush falls over the laboratory as chemistry students complete the final stages of an experiment for class. Students spend hours of preparation to act out the roles of gods and goddesses for an English class. Life and death situations are explored by health students. Yes, a variety of dramatic episodes are present everyday at CHS.

Your ticket to drama is worth every cent! The classroom is full of adventures for the mind!

c: Sophomore Jesse Vilbanco reads the book, "A Death in the Family" for a book report in Miss Johnnie McCray's sixth hour English class.

CHS stresses

'here, there'

Learning a foreign language and increasing skills in the English language, were top priorities during the year.

In French and Spanish classrooms students practiced their vocabulary and grammar. During the summer Mrs. Ann Korellis escorted 14 French students to Switzerland and France. Enjoying a trip to the Caribbean, Miss Carmen Lis chaperoned 17 Spanish students on a cruise.

Although English classes sometimes follow basic course descriptions students did complete projects like dressing as their favorite Greek gods.

Fite receives science honor

Hours of study and effort paid off for senior Debra Fite when she received the Bausch and Lomb science award. Debra compiled top grades in science subjects during her four years at CHS.

Three students traveled to Indiana University Northwest to a calculator and geometry contest in March for nine and tenth grade levels.

Five mathematics students attended the state math contest on April 26. The sessions were held for Algebra I, II and geometry students.

Faculty members and two parents were busy during the year adopting new textbooks for the Mathematics Department next year.

New equipment for the mathematics area included a new Apple 2C for the students to use in the computer mathematics class.

Centers add variety

Students who wanted to take advantage of special centers at Calumet were directed toward the reading lab, library, or the computer lab.

The reading lab was directed by Mrs. Linda Demo. Students attempted to increase their reading speed and develop good reading habits. The students were referred by their English teachers.

Students were encouraged throughout the year to use the library facilities. New equipment for the library included the addition of several computers for individual student use.

Computer lab facilities were utilized by students as individuals and in groups. Several classes concentrated on mastering word processing.

Art receives new 'look'

The sounds of grinding saws and pounding hammers echoed in the hallway near the construction of the new art room. Although sawdust sprinkled the corridors throughout the school year, completion of the facility is not slated until next fall. The department also held a senior exhibit in the spring with displays of each student's work from all current and previous art classes.

CHS' Drama Department was busy in the fall preparing for their annual Homecoming Revue. Members of the class also provided backgrounds for the fall and spring plays. Those enrolled in drama also presented a Christmas Nativity Pageant for students during the day, and for community members at an evening performance.

a: Members of drama class, senior John Skomac and junior Don Baron portray Ed Norton and Ralph Kramden in a "Honeymooners" skit during the Homecoming Revue.

Area urges new skills

Students with an eye for color and design have an opportunity to express themselves through courses in practical arts at CHS.

Practical arts were a big part of the year at Calumet. Courses included in this department were woods, metals, drafting, welding, graphic arts, cooking and handicrafts. All activities were graded on quality and appearance.

Members of experimental foods class prepared a traditional holiday dinner at Thanksgiving. The class also held competitions for cake baking.

Area focuses on past, now

Do you enjoy learning about the great people and great events of the past? Maybe wrestling with the Gross National Product or the national debt is a subject more to your liking. Courses in the social sciences provided information in these and other areas to CHSers.

Civics and careers was required of all freshman at CHS. World civilization was mandatory for all sophomores. Juniors were enrolled in U.S. history courses and seniors were required to complete government and economics classes.

Area stresses work world

Minding your own business could prove to be important to your future. How, you ask? A variety of courses were offered by the Business Department for students wishing to gain a good start on a career.

Classes in typing and general business were made available for first year students. Advanced courses included business machines and Shorthand I and II.

Intensive lab, a special two hour course, was offered for advanced business students. The class was taught by Miss Eva Simic. Miss Simic was honored as CHS' "Outstanding Teacher" by the Inland Steel-Ryerson Foundation.

Emphasis on body fitness

Keeping "in shape" for sports and life was one of the main goals of the Health and Physical Education Department. Students were encouraged to develop interests in physical exercise and healthful habits for the future.

During the year, students studied the techniques of Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) in health classes. Area paramedics from the Red Cross demonstrated and tested students on the procedure.

Physical education classes included courses of study in team and life sports. Students also were given instruction in swimming at the CHS pool facility.

Drivers' education classes were offered to sophomores. Students were required to complete work in the classroom, practice on the simulators, and complete road experience in the automobile.

Excitement:

Your VIP ticket to action puts you right in the front row. You become a part of the action taking place on the screen.

Some of the organizations tell a tale of heart-rendering satisfaction for providing food for those less fortunate. The gift of blood (life) is the concern of another group called to action.

Red and white pom pons vibrating in the breeze and screams of "Beat 'Em," call other organizations to action. Spirit can bring most crowds to their feet.

Participating in contests, other groups explore how they measure up. They know that sensation of standing alone on the screen with only their talent serving as a support.

Clubs provided a ticket to action and an opportunity to work with others.

Honor groups add members

On your honor? "Making the grade" was a requirement for membership in both Quill and Scroll Society and National Honor Society.

Quill and Scroll Society inducted two new members into the Calumet chapter during the second semester. To be inducted, a student was required to have attained a B average, be either a junior or senior status, and currently be serving as a staff member.

National Honor Society inducted 27 new members on April 23. The organization presented $100 scholarships to the four top seniors. Honor Society also sold candy during the lunch hours.

Council plans wild weeks

Drumming up excitement for the Red and White Warriors, Student Council sponsored Homecoming and Sectional Spirit Weeks during the year. Council crammed the weeks full with activities, and the group provided days in which students could dress in an unusual fashion.

Education Week was another main event sponsored by the organization. Ribbons for outstanding students, a Student-Teacher Exchange Day and a favorite teacher contest were some of the activities sponsored.

Other Council activities included Grandparents Week and Teacher Appreciation Day. The group also collected donations for the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Technology changes staff

Deadlines, head aches and a whole new language captured the attention of both yearbook and newspaper staffs. The addition of an IBM personal computer and three new programs kept yearbook staffers busy throughout the year.

Fourteen newspaper and yearbook staffers attended Northern Indiana Journalism Seminar on April 11 at Purdue Calumet. Three staff members traveled to Lawrence Central High School for the "Media Merit-thon" contest on April 12.

In the spring senior Patti Wachowski received the Post-Tribune "Most Valuable Staffer" award. Sophomore Susan Farler, member of the yearbook staff, was the Hammond Times "Most Valuable Staffer."

Financial woes forced the yearbook staff to alter the size of the '86 book. The book changed from 8 1/2 inches by 11 inches to 7 3/4 inches by 10 1/2 inches. The Chieftain contains 8 pages of activity color and 12 pages of senior color, paid for by the Class of '86.

Stressing job skills

Job opportunities, giving experience, and learning new skills were top priorities for vocational educational clubs at CHS. The organizations attempted to help students answer that age old question: 'Whatcha gonna' be when you grow up? Office Education Association (OEA) held several fund raising projects during the year.

Indiana Health Occupations Students of America (I-HOSA) sponsored the Candlelight Reflections Turnabout Dance. Members also gave assistance to the Red Cross during their annual blood drive at CHS. The club also conducted several other fund raising projects. Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) members were also participants in contests. The club assisted the C-Teens organization with distribution of food baskets.

CHS groups reach out!

Operating as a charitable organization, C-Teens conducted several projects to benefit others. The group prepared Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets for needy families. C-Teens distributed Halloween treat bags and Easter baskets to the Lake Ridge Headstart children.

To finance their projects and a trip to Great America, C-Teens sold items and candy.

Also concerned with the welfare of others, S.A.D.D. provided ornament shaped contracts for couples to sign at the Christmas dance.

Music groups hold concerts

Throughout the year the Band and Chorus entertained the school and community by boosting school spirit during sports' seasons and by concerts. Both groups held concerts at Christmas and in the spring.

The groups held several fund raisers. Band sold fruitcakes and beef raffle tickets, plus they held a Tag Day. Chorus sold grapefruits, oranges and lollipops. Profits from the sales were used for group activities.

Groups help sports efforts

Although CHS is smaller than many high schools, the students showed no shortage of school spirit. The Varsity Cheerleaders sold a variety of ribbons during Homecoming. The organization raised money through the sale of bandannas at Sectional. The girls also decorated the locker rooms for the various athletic events.

Tryouts for the cheerleading squad were held in the spring. The girls attended camp during the summer.

Barbell Club was formed in October and raised $900 through membership dues. They held a Lift-a-thon in March and raised $1,500 to further equip the room with mirrored walls, a stereo system, a stationary bicycle, and more weights.

Yell groups boost spirit

"We got spirit, yes we do!" JV Cheerleaders, Warriorettes and Lettergirls helped to boost CHS pride during the year at sports events.

JV Cheerleading Squad sold ribbons and other items, and they decorated locker rooms before Homecoming and Sectional.

Warriorettes, pom pom squad, performed routines at halftime during football and basketball seasons. The organization raised funds through bake sales, carnation sales and the sale of spirit items.

Lettergirls were present at all home games to cheer. The girls also made posters to publicize Spirit Week.

Suspense:

Your VIP ticket to suspense provides ample opportunity for nail biting and heart pounding. Emotion-packed sequences of football, basketball, volleyball and tennis provide frenzied moments for the audience.

The cast of players is filled with villains and heroes. The Warrior spirit prevails, and you just know that these "good guys" will win in the end.

Like the swashbuckling heroes of old, the Warriors demonstrate their daring-do against opponents. Their larger than life exploits are applauded by the crowds of screaming admirers.

Each moment of the melodrama is played out. Excitement builds to a crescendo with the "pin," the "sack," or the "spike."

All of the elements of emotion are realized in a year brimming with suspense!

CHS squad struggles

To some, golf is a game where each player hungers after that elusive, perfect round. One can easily become frustrated while chasing that little ball down the fairway. Forget the hole-in-one, most participants would settle for shooting in the low 70's.

Calumet High School's Varsity Golf Team finished their season with 3 wins and 13 losses.

Season highlights included a win over the Highland Trojans. Competing in the Lake Hills Tournament, the squad beat three teams who had defeated them earlier in the season. In the tournament, Ro Emig, junior, placed 79 out of 90 golfers. Sophomore Rawn Emig qualified for the playoffs, but was defeated.

Wilson posts 31 steals

Although the 1986 baseball season began on a sad note, the death of 18-year veteran coach Mr. Dick Trcka, the squad did pull together and finished with a winning record for the regular season. The team finished 16-13-1.

A new school record for stolen bases was set by junior Wesley Wilson. The junior stole 31 during the regular season. Freshman Emilio Ruiz also added excitement when he pitched a no-hitter against Andrean.

Other exciting moments came for the team when they beat Munster, 4-1. At the time of their loss, Munster was ranked number one in the state.

Coach Woody Feeler indicated that several outstanding defensive plays were made by sophomore Rich Murga in center field.

CHS adds 'soft' squad

Playing softball may be an old pastime, but it was a new sport at CHS. The first CHS Girls Softball Team was assembled during the spring by Coach Michael Prohl.

Junior Doreen Robbins captured "Most Valuable Player" honors at the spring sports banquet on June 3. Other softball players cited included sophomore Kim Newell, "Most Improved"; sophomore Danica Chirich, "Most Coachable"; junior Denise Richardson, "Best Mental Attitude"; junior Chris Conti, "Captain's Award"; and junior Nancy Gaines, "Golden Glove" award.

Commenting on the team's first season, Coach Prohl said, "We weren't expected to win any (games)." The team finished 2-16 and 1-11 in conference action.

Coach Prohl expects the team to improve in the next few years. He indicated that the squads to follow will hopefully "establish a winning attitude."

a: Freshman Dawn DeLaCruz takes a cut at the racing pitch.

b: Junior Denise Richardson adjusts herself for the incoming throw c: Sophomore Lisa Anderson pitches in a conference game against Lake Central.

Your VIP ticket to cast includes the famous and the near famous.

Yes, you ought to be in pictures! A wide variety of faces and personalities follow in the panels of portraits contained in this section.

What type of personality are you looking for? Some of the cast are comic, and some are tragic, and some have personalities which are difficult to capture on film.

Portray these emotions: terror, apprehension, despair, wonder, confusion, joy. In the course of a year most of the members of the cast run the gamut of these emotions.

Would you like to be a star? At CHS we are an ensemble group and each and every player is a star. When you purchased your ticket to the cast you were granted a glimpse of each star in the production.

Concessions:

Pressing your nose against the glass, you begin to ponder each and every possibility. Will it be chocolate covered raisins or Milk Duds? Your VIP ticket provides an intermission for concessions.

Area businesses provided advertising for this 1986 movie of the school year. Yearbook staff members were again supported in their efforts by the proprietors of local establishments.

As you continue to scan each and every possible selection at the candy counter, you finally decide on popcorn and a coke. After all, what is a movie without fistfuls of those buttered morsels? Happy with your selection, you settle back in your seat for the closing moments of the movie.

Hands Across America

An historical undertaking to help the homeless and the hungry took place on May 25 when Americans across the nation linked hands to make a symbolic gesture.

Although there were gaps in the line, especially in inhospitable climates, the spirit of those participating was high. Participants made donations of $10 or more to reserve their place in line. All donations were used by the USA Africa committee to help organizations help the American hungry and homeless.

Student Council and other CHS organizations sponsored a number of students participating in the project.

a: Clowns entertain Northwest Indiana participants.

d: Participants line the streets in Gary.

Hoosiers care!

As the curtain falls, applause fills the movie theatre. Each moment of 1986, those special times of foot stomping sports events and romantic candle glowing dances, was a huge success. The critics are proclaiming this year's production a masterpiece!

Members of the 1986 Chieftain would like to thank the following supporting cast: Miss Robyn Payne; Spasoff Studio; Miss Donna Arington, Newsfoto Yearbooks; Miss Johnnie McCray, Senior Class sponsor; and Mr. Jonathan Keach, graphic arts instructor. Art provided by Graphic Arts Department.

The End..
